Short description	It is a non-profit organization of secular mold that deals with women, Italian and foreign, in financial and life difficulties. It works in partnership with Social Services, foundations and civic associations. “The House of Joele” is a babysitting oriented towards education and intercultural pedagogy, therefore the workers come from different countries (Brazil, Morocco, Russia, Kenya, Italy). It is also a non-profit service: part of the fee is used to receive for free children affected by family hardship and some profits are invested in projects aimed at improving the quality of life in the neighborhood in which is the babysitting. Compared to traditional child care services, in addition, the opening hours are extended during the week, including Saturday mornings and holidays, when public facilities are usually closed: thus the service is supporting working women.
